WILLING TO LEARN

We strive for everyone to have an attitude of willing to learn at ICAN.

These are three ways we work towards that willing to learn atmosphere.

Set Learning Goals: Identify an area you would like to see more growth in, money skills, communication or learning a new computer skill.
Embrace Feedback: Treat constructive criticism as an opportunity to grow yourself professionally and personally.

Experiment Frequently: Trying new tasks or going to new places. Work in a different area to develop and highlight unknown strengths.

Through accreditation, CARF assists service providers in demonstrating value by the quality of their services and meeting internationally-recognized organizational and program standards. We look forward to continuing our accreditation partnership with them.
